

Development Conversations

What is covered in Development Conversations?

- Help people recognise their potential and to seek opportunities to stretch themselves
- Guide people to discover new ways of working and different ways to explore their strengths and apply them to their work.
- Assist team members to see how training and development is more than just courses.

Who is it for?

This module introduces leaders to ways they can frame up meaningful development conversations. Helping others become clear about why a particular learning opportunity matters or where development can make a difference to our performance and interactions means team members become considered and selective about what learning will target individual transformation.

What does it offer?

Framing learning and development opportunities in strengths based language and supporting others to see how they can round out their skills and gain more experience will mean they are focused on the right type of development for their career and personal growth.

How do we sign up?

Contact us at madebetterhuman.com.au

MADE BETTER HUMAN human • kind

THE LEADING CONVERSATIONS SERIES