

Expansive Thinking

What is Expansive Thinking?

Expansive Thinking explores how unconscious biases influence how you see the world and make decisions. You will learn about behavioural economics and how every day we make automatic decisions which may have good or bad consequences in life. You will learn how your decisions are influenced by unconscious biases and how to identify those biases to avoid errors of judgement.

Who is it for?

Expansive Thinking is for people who want to explore how the brain makes decisions, drawing on recent developments in cognitive and social psychology. You will want to know the differences between fast (intuitive) thinking and slow (deliberate) thinking and learn how to have influence over your thoughts and decisions for better outcomes.

What does it offer?

Expansive Thinking offers a brief but insightful glimpse into behavioural decision research and how errors of judgement and choice are influenced by unconscious bias influences in our daily lives. It teaches the importance of slow, rational decision making, particularly within a business setting. Reflecting on how this knowledge can be used to positively influence future decisions for yourself and others.
